

Aviflora: Plants and the Birds that Love Them

Images by Ted Bradford, Brooks Mathewson, Anne Haggerty & Eduardo del Solar

Red-wing Blackbird on red twig dogwood by Eduardo del Solar

January 14 — March 11

Reception: Saturday, February 18, 1–3pm

Science Talk: Migration in the Arboretum by Brooks Mathewson

Wednesday, February 15, 7–8pm

The quantity and diversity of trees and shrubs in our area provide shelter and food to a wide assortment of birds throughout the year. Four fantastic bird photographers have combed their portfolios for images that capture both floral and avian organisms in tandem. By giving a measure of parity to the plants, these images invite the viewer to consider the vital interactions between all living things.

The ARNOLD
ARBORETUM
of HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Hunnewell Building Lecture Hall
125 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, MA 02130
Call 617.384.5209 for viewing availability.